WHO

THE CHANGE AGENTS

There's a difference between being a project manager and a change manager. And there's a difference between driving change outside or inside of an organisation.

That's why awareness of own motivation, understanding your role and what is required of you in terms of personal characteristics as well as professional skills is key to being an effective agent of sustainable business change.

Purpose:

Understand your own role as a sustainable business change manager.

Drivers

CSOs are almost universally driven by their mission and will increasingly act as the 'purveyor of purpose'.

- Ability to build relationships and social capital
- Authenticity and purpose
- Strategic thinking
- Resilience through a long 'arc of change'
- Sustainability is core to their identity and purpose in life
- Energised by partnerships and the complexity of such significant challenges
- Desire to operationalise the sustainability agenda – building processes and structures
- Limited need for power and recognition, although comfortable with openly speaking out and challenging the status quo.

To acquire true agency, break old patterns and act with persistence in uncertain times, we need to practise skills in the fifth dimension of our framework, ACTING. Qualities such as:

- 🔥 COURAGE - Ability to stand up for values, make decisions, take decisive action and, if need be, challenge and disrupt existing structures and views.
- 🔥 CREATIVITY - Ability to generate and develop original ideas, innovate and being willing to disrupt conventional patterns.
- 🔥 OPTIMISM - Ability to sustain and communicate a sense of hope, positive attitude and confidence in the possibility of meaningful change.
- 🔥 PERSEVERANCE - Ability to sustain engagement and remain determined and patient even when efforts take a long time to bear fruit.

Which of these skills is the strongest in you? How did you develop it?

1. Start with why
2. Stop and self-care
3. Ask for help
4. Stay optimistic
5. Support each other

"Support each other. We are part of a community of hundreds of millions of people. Let's celebrate each other's wins. Connect and commiserate on the hard parts of our calling. Remind each other why we do this. Bring more people in the fold. As a community of change-makers we fuel each other - and that camaraderie is brilliant".
